

Our Vision

Abilis Solutions has grown exponentially from its humble beginnings in 1996. Our success is founded on simple principles:

1. Nurture people who care for our customers and treat other team-members 'like family'.
2. Focus on giving our customers what's best for them, not what's best for us.
3. Build a culture of innovation and continuous self-improvement.

The Abilis PMO was created to act as guardian of these principles. As our organization expands and moves into new technologies and markets the PMO strives to keep these principles at the heart of everything we do. We can get bigger, we can get better, but we'll never lose sight of what makes us special.

Our People

Abilis began business as a technical consultancy firm providing experts to work on projects at our customers' offices. During this time, we needed to have people with the very best skills and approaches in order to gain a competitive edge. Today, following Abilis' expansion towards fixed-price Innovation Centre projects and product development programs, our people continue to be our prime asset.

Our Commitment to Our People

To build teams that can support one another and care for our customers, Abilis, supported through the PMO, makes the following commitments to its people:

Our Commitment to Customers

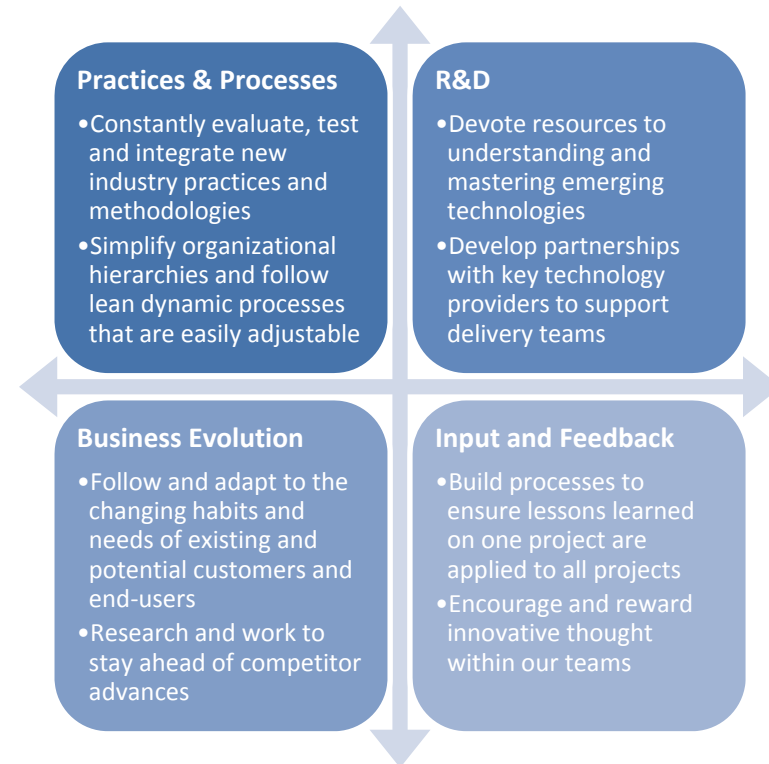

When we engage in a new project our aim is always to give our customers the maximum return on their investment. This can only be done if we understand to the fullest possible extent our customers' business processes and needs and then work shoulder to shoulder with customers and their end-users to design and build the right solution. Delivering value isn't only about meeting specifications on time and within budget: it's as much about helping our customers identify the optimal set of business requirements, being able to refine and improve those requirements through successive iterations, and then helping end-users learn and take ownership of the solution so it gets used to its full potential.

Our Culture

Abilis works in an environment where technologies, standards, business needs and user habits are forever evolving. We are only able to stay ahead of our competitors and continue delivering value if we promote learning, innovation and improvement.

Abilis has established these approaches to ensure we continue improving and adapting to our changing environment:

Our PMO Commitment

At Abilis we have a team that cares. Customers quickly become partners and together we keep getting better at what we do. The PMO is committed to helping our teams preserve this unique approach and (we hope!) have fun along the way.